1. KAO Ch'ung-min (高崇民) is the Communist governor of Antung province. He held that position before the Communists captured Antung.
2. LIU Lan-po (劉蘭波) is the mayor of Antung, the deputy chairman of the provincial government.
3. LU Chi-en (呂基恩) is Commander of the Liaotung Army District Headquarters. The headquarters is in the Japanese school formerly used by the Nationalists as headquarters for the 52d Army. LU Chi-en is Commander of the Communist Peace Preservation Corps troops in Antung. This headquarters is in the building formerly used as (Nationalist) Third Pacification Corps Headquarters. The Deputy Commander of the PPC is LI Te-ch'eng (李德成), the Chief of Staff is LIU T'ien-ta (劉天達). Note: LU Chi-en was previously reported as Commander of Communist PPC troops in Antung. It is probable that the PPC is under or in the Liaotung Army District. The Nationalist 52d Army in Antung was under the Third Pacification Corps.)

4. Many persons now working for the Communists in Antung are former Communists who surrendered to the Nationalists while they occupied Antung. Among these persons are CHIEH Ying (解英), head of the Chin Tang (?) district, and TUNG, director of the Electric Bureau. LEI Ting (雷汀) is chief of the Communist Railway Bureau in Antung.

5. The leading Chinese Communists in Antung, including LIU Lan-po, LU Chi-en, LI Fu-tao (李福澤) (not identified) and LIU T'ien-ta, are living in the Shuang Fa Yuan Hotel in Sinuiju (124-24, 40-06). They leave Antung every evening, cross the border and return in the morning.

6. The two most important Communist military leaders in Antung are SUN I-yang (孫義揚) and CHENG Kuo-i (鄭國義); the two most important political leaders are LU Kan-tsung (盧甘恩) and CHANG Yun-hsuan (張雲軒).
